Forms of discrimination

Types

Discrimination may be direct or indirect, or arising from disability and it may occur intentionally or unintentionally.

Direct discrimination

Direct discrimination occurs when a person is treated less favourably than another person because of a protected characteristic.

It can also occur when a person is treated less favourably because of their association with another person who has a protected characteristic (other than pregnancy or maternity).

Indirect discrimination

Indirect discrimination occurs where an individual is subject to an unjustified provision, criterion or practice which puts them at a particular disadvantage because of, for example their race or sex.

Discrimination arising from disability

Discrimination arising from disability occurs when a person with a disability is treated unfavourably because of something connected with their disability and the treatment cannot be shown to be a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim. For example, where a student with a disability who is also a wheelchair user is told they are unable to attend a school trip because there is no wheelchair access and alternative options have not been investigated.

Equal opportunities education provider

Admission

Each school accepts applications from and admits pupils irrespective of their Protected Characteristics and will not discriminate on these grounds in the terms on which a place is offered. Every application is treated in a fair, open minded way. Each school's admissions policy reflects the trusts approach to equal opportunities and is consistent with this policy.

Equal access

Each school will enable all pupils equal access to all benefits, services, facilities, classes and subjects including all sports, irrespective of their Protected Characteristics, subject to conditions of safety and welfare.

Positive action

The schools may afford pupils of a particular racial group or students with a disability or special educational needs access to additional education or training to meet the special needs of the pupils within that group.

Exclusions

The schools will not discriminate against any pupil by excluding him or her from school or by subjecting them to any other detriment on the grounds of their Protected Characteristics.

Teaching and school materials

Efforts are made to recognise and be aware of the possibility of bias so that it can be eliminated in both teaching and learning materials and teaching styles. Materials are carefully selected for all areas of the curriculum so as to avoid stereotypes and bias.

Student interaction

All pupils are encouraged to work and interact freely with and have mutual respect for all other pupils irrespective of their Protected Characteristics, subject to considerations of safety and welfare. Positive attitudes are encouraged towards all groups in society through the curriculum and ethos. Pupils are encouraged to question assumptions and stereotypes.

Bullying

The trust will not tolerate bullying or cyberbullying for any reason. Specific types of bullying include the following;

- Relating to race, religion, belief or culture;
- Related to SEN, learning difficulties or disabilities;
- Related to appearance or health condition;
- Bullying of young carers or looked after children or otherwise related to home circumstances;
- Related to sexist or sexual bullying.

Each school's anti-bullying policy contains more information about each school's anti-bullying practices.

Each school's school uniform is consistent with this policy. The same policy applies to all pupils equally, irrespective of their gender, gender reassignment, race, disability, sexual orientation, pregnancy or maternity, religion or belief or special educational needs, subject to considerations of safety and welfare. However, we will consider reasonable requests to alter the school uniform, for example for genuine religious requirements and reasonable adjustments for pupils with a disability.

Students with SEN

Each school's policy on special educational needs includes details about the welfare and educational provision for students with Education, Health and Care Plans.

Students with English as an additional language

Students with English as an additional language will receive additional learning support if necessary. The pupils and their parents will be consulted with as appropriate. Linguistic diversity is positively recognised across the trust. Each school will ensure that:

- Links are established with the local community;
- Staff work effectively with other local services;
- Learning support for ethnic minority pupils is efficient and effective;

Applicants

The trust will accept applicants from and recruit staff irrespective of their Protected Characteristics and will not discriminate on these grounds in the terms on which a position is offered. Every application will be treated in a fair and open minded way. The trust Safer Recruitment policy reflects our approach towards equal opportunities and is consistent with this policy.

Equal access

The trust will ensure that all staff have equal access to all benefits, services, facilities and opportunities for development irrespective of their Protected Characteristics subject to consideration of safety and welfare.

Monitoring

To ensure that this policy is operating effectively, and to identify those sections of the local community which may be under-represented, each school monitors staff and pupil applicants' gender, race, disability and religion or belief. We also monitor achievement, exclusions and bullying incidents against gender, race, disability and special educational needs. We maintain records of this data in an anonymised format for the purposes stated in this policy.

Review

The headteacher within each school, together with representatives from the central trust team are responsible for the ongoing monitoring and analysis of the data monitored in accordance with this policy and will arrange for the taking of appropriate steps to eliminate unlawful direct and indirect discrimination where necessary.

Reporting and recording incidents of discrimination

If you believe that you or your child has received less favourable treatment on any of the unlawful grounds listed within this policy or if you feel that this policy has been breached in any way to your detriment you are encouraged to raise the matter through the trusts complaints procedure, available on the trust and individual school's websites.
