

Britney's Lock – National Theatre Connections Festival

When Ruby acquires a lock of Britney Spears' hair as a relic to help her stay calm during her GCSE mocks, her friends dismiss it, but one by one they feel its power and want a piece of it, until it is destroyed.

This funny play about how we cope in stressful situations, explores the power of belief and friendship.

We are excited to let you know about our upcoming performances of “Britney’s Lock” the premiere of a new play by Alexandra Wood, which is taking place next Tuesday 17th and Wednesday 18th March at 7.15 in the PAC.

Students from Years 9-11 have been rehearsing since October to put the show together and will also be performing it the Garage Theatre in Norwich in April as part of the National Theatre Connections Festival, the largest festival of youth theatre in the UK.

“Britney’s Lock” is an ideal play for those students are thinking of choosing GCSE Drama in the future or just have an interest in the subject. Parents/Guardians are also warmly invited!
